DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGING NEWS

RDA or not, here we go: LC gearing up for the successor to AACR2

Judith Kuhagen, Senior Cataloging Policy Specialist in LC's Policy and Standards Division, has sent the following announcement to the RDA list:

The Policy and Standards Division, part of the Acquisitions and Bibliographic Access Directorate at the Library of Congress (Washington, D.C.), is launching a new website as the Library prepares for RDA. The site is located at: <http://www.loc.gov/aba/rda/>. There are links to training documents, presentations, exercises, and examples of records as well as to other RDA related sites. Many more links will be added as items are created, edited, and updated as preparations for RDA proceed. The page originally created for LC documentation related to the US RDA Test will no longer be maintained. Links from that site will be migrated to the new site over time as appropriate.

Fall Meeting on Genre/Form Headings

On Friday, December 9, 2011, NOTSL (Northern Ohio Technical Services Librarians) will hold its Fall Meeting at the Kent Student Center on the Kent State University Main Campus. The topic will be New Developments in Genre/Form headings. Our keynote speaker will be Janis L. Young, Genre/Form Coordinator for the Library of Congress. Karen Anderson, Authority Control Librarian at Backstage Library Works, will discuss issues related to genre/form headings and automated authority control. Our third speaker, Paige Andrew, Map Cataloging Librarian at Pennsylvania State University, will discuss practical applications of genre/form headings related to cataloging cartographic materials.

Registration will be available in early October. See the NOTSL website for further details.
